Coming into this program, I definitely expected to improve my Japanese skills, but I was so pleasantly surprised that JLIC also offered such a rich cultural experience! We tried several traditional Japanese crafts that even many locals haven't experienced, like mizuhiki, wagashi and kanzashi making, Yuzen dyeing, and ikebana. Alongside three hours of Japanese classes every day, our vibrant schedule in Kyoto allowed us to truly experience the unique aspects of the city, like its precious temples and shrines. I was also thrilled about the field trips with DWCLA students, which gave us the chance to connect in a casual atmosphere. Having a language partner helped immensely too, providing a wonderful opportunity to practice Japanese with local students. The Japanese class really allowed me to improve my skills naturally while discussing essential, real-world topics every day. Furthermore, the coordinators from the JLIC program were incredibly helpful throughout my entire stay, and meeting so many other students from all over the world was wonderful. Thanks to JLIC and DWCLA, I have made so many valuable memories, and Kyoto will always hold a special place in my heart!

I think attending the JLIC program has been one of the best decisions I've made in college. Since I've started attending JLIC, not only has my Japanese improved immensely, but I've also gained a newfound sense of confidence I didn't have before. The coordinators, teachers, and mentors have been incredibly supportive every step of the way. Classes have a great environment due to the engaging nature of the coursework and the fun, encouraging attitude the instructors have. The workload is also not too time consuming, so it leaves you with plenty of free time to explore Japan. I believe what really sets JLIC apart is the group cultural activities and field trips you get to participate in. These activities have been one of the biggest sources for me to better understand social expectations, cultural differences, and develop practical skills. Because of this, I feel much more comfortable exploring new things and navigating Japan on my own. If you're looking for a program that improves your Japanese speaking skills, interactively teaches culture, and has a great classroom environment, all while providing plenty of time for you to independently explore, this is an amazing program!
